Dear Members of the Class of 1976:

To each of you I extend my congratulations on the goal which you have achieved, and my appreciation and thanks for helping each of us and the School to grow and to accomplish better its mission.

These past three years have undoubtedly had a profound impact on your lives and those close to you. You have also had a profound impact on countless patients to whom you have been helping, giving, understanding persons as you developed your skills in ministering to human needs.

You have emerged as a graduate nurse after what undoubtedly seemed like total immersion! You have had opportunities, as a learner, to try out the various roles of a graduate, professional nurse, to develop and test your capacities, to stretch your capabilities, and to achieve a greater degree of self-awareness and self-actualization. You have been learning to "get it together" and what you have emerged with is different for each of you. We hope that you have been able to get your bearings, to gain a sense of direction and look forward to the future with eagerness, anticipation, courage and hope.

In times of rapid change such as we are all experiencing, and will perhaps experience in the near future, I would urge you to be clear about your values, standards, and ideals. Know yourself, your strengths, your limitations; be able to reach out and accept help to transform the latter into assets when possible. Continue to develop your judgment; to take calculated risks; to deal with uncertainty; to be constructive and to learn to challenge effectively and to follow through. Pursue learning and be as accountable to yourself as you are accountable to others. See the possibilities in the opportunities around you and take advantage of them. You have such enormous potential and there exists a world much in need of women and men of compassion, wisdom, and integrity.

I'd like to close on this note, sharing with you a quotation from Erik Erickson about one's sense of integrity, a central part of our lives and of our destiny. He has described it as "an acceptance of the fact that one's life is one's own responsibility. It is a sense of comradeship with men and women of distant times and of different pursuits, who have created orders and objects and sayings conveying human dignity and love. Although aware of the relativity of all the various life styles that have given meaning to human striving, the possessor of integrity is ready to defend the dignity of hiw own life style against all physical and economic threats. For he knows that, for him, all human dignity stands or falls with the one style of integrity of which he partakes."

Don't be afraid to stand alone and let your self-respect show through. I hope that you will experience great joy and fulfilment through the boundless riches which life can offer.

Sincerely yours,

Valerie Fitzgald

Someone called and wanted to know for whom I was living and I said myself
and they said no, I mean for whom,
and I said myself.
Then someone called and wanted to know what I will be doing next year and I said I didn't even know what I would be doing next second and they said no, I mean what do you want to be,
and I said I am.
Someone called and wanted to know if people who never had their names in newspapers were really alive and I said yes,
and they said but how can that be,
and I said great.
And then someone called and wanted to know where I will go when I leave the earth and I said I can not leave, and they said figuratively speaking,
and I said, figuratively speaking, I am the earth.

There were times we sought solitude, and times we craved companionship . . . and a lot of times spent just trying to find a place where we belonged.

To those understanding people who got us to where we are today. This book is dedicated to you.

Gladness can scarcely be a solitary thing. The very life of praise seems choral; it is more than one bounded heart can utter . . . Joy is a uniting thing. It builds up while it enlarges the whole nature. It is the wine to strengthen the heart . . . .

It is my joy in life to find
At every turning of the road
The strong arm of a comrade kind
To help me onward with my load.
And since I have no gold to give,
And love alone must make amends,
My only prayer is, while I live,
God make me worthy of my friends.

Tomorrow has a rare alluring sound;
Today is very prose; and yet the twain
Are but one vision seen thro' altered eyes.
Our dreams inhabit one: our stress

Surge thro' the other. Heaven is but today
Made lovely with tomorrow's face for aye.

I walked with poets in my youth
Because the world they drew
